YOUR 'PERSONAL' INDEX

The two previous pages list all the topics presented in My Weekly Reader Surprise and in the Kindergarten Teacher's Edition this year. You undoubtedly found some articles and features especially valuable in your own classroom program. For example, you may recall:

- a picture news story that generated particularly high interest in your class;
- a special enrichment section with an immediately close tie-in with your social studies or science program;
- a news story or special section that will be a valuable reference source for some of your future kindergartners;
- a picture story about Zip and Nip that resulted in enjoyable and valuable follow-up language arts activities;
- a citizenship feature that stimulated a particularly lively discussion;
- an article or Idea Shop in the Teacher's Edition that will prove to be helpful in teaching or as a professional reference.

Space is provided on this page for you to record these topics. While the year's experiences are still fresh in your mind, write down these topics for future reference. You will find this "personal index" a handy guide in planning to teach these topics in the future.

You may also want to note any books or other materials that you used in teaching these topics.
